

President Obama's Health and Cancer Care Plans

Early this year, Susan G. Komen for the Cure Advocacy Alliance launched I Vote for the Cure®, a special project to educate voters and challenge our nation's political leaders to make breast cancer – and affordable, accessible healthcare – priorities for our country.

During the campaign, President Barack Obama acknowledged the importance of addressing the many gaps in our healthcare system - and in reinvigorating the fight against cancer, a disease that claims more than half a million lives and costs the U.S. more than $219 billion each year.

Susan G. Komen for the Cure Advocacy Alliance urges President Obama to continue fighting to make breast cancer research and treatment a priority when he takes office.
